JUST AN INSTANCE.

The "big doings" have been pulled off and still Senator Bailey breathes, is alive and evidently has many friends which were before unknown to him. A pretty illustration of how malicious stories about him have started without foundation, occurred the other night in a well known hotel in Fort Worth. A group of men were talking about Mr. Bailey and his recent troubles. The current opinion was that he deserved all that he was getting. "Why," said one, "I understand he even refused his daughter a home with the family and rather than face the disgrace attending the fact when it became known, the poor girl tried to commit suicide."

"You do," broke in a man who had just stepped up to the crowd. "Well you want to change your 'understanding'. Senator Bailey has no daughter, my kind friend."

For a moment nothing but blank faces appeared and then slowly the little gathering dispersed, heartily ashamed of themselves.

Mark Travis is in Washington, a full fledged lobbyist. He is trying to induce enough members of the House and Senate to vote for a bill of constitutional limitation which, if it is passed, will be of great benefit to writers and publishers. Mark generally cuts out in this world and it will be a bit surprising if he falls in this, his first attempt along these lines. Clements has a habit of troubling things and he is not a bit surprised that it may be that he will find it necessary to resort to the humorous before his labors in this matter are finished. He has a secretary with him whose duty it is to run messages into his office after which they are given lessons in needed civility and reform.

Perhaps one reason why Bellamy Storer and his wife have entered into a controversy with President Roosevelt is with a hope to regain some degree of the notoriety which the writing of "Looking Backward" brought upon them given to the public. It has been said that one once in the public eye, is ever after a craver of that condition. "Looking Backward" is past and forgotten. And nearly so was Bellamy Storer. To call or insultate President Roosevelt a liar, if the press will take up your ranting raves as much, it is not more publicly than any book ever written produced. Who knows, perhaps this is a solution to the whole controversy.

A New York professor with a tongue too long to print, now tells us that the women who are having cancer is because we are using unannealed wire vessels instead of the old copper battered or from cases. Now if some of the great scientists of the world would come forward with a statement that prepared by ignorant minds produce appendicitis, it is presumed that the solution of two very difficult questions in modern ailments may be considered accomplished.

and pretty women called in Vinches Falls sought most desperately for those who promulgated the gathering. After the meeting was called to order it developed that a majority of those present, and all the women, were for Father rather than against him. The best laid plans sometimes fail. The meeting ended in an endorsement of Bailey.

A merchant in a legitimate business, never was too well known. The columns of a newspaper offer publicity in a cheaper and more effective way than any other medium.

The sidewalk on Polk street—in one place—threatens destruction to everyone who walks over it. Those owning property adjacent should see that same is repaired.

"Live stock!" That's what the shares in the new Elks' home are. Get into line and own some. Four per cent interest guaranteed.

Have you seen that hump? What hump, did you say? Why, the one on Polk street just above Seventh. Regular young mountain.

A Young Men's Christian Association would be a welcome addition to Amarillo's public possessions. Why not have one?

Have you made your Xmas purchases? Better hurry. A good many have and you'll be wishing you had begun earlier.

As usual, Amarillo weather is all that can be asked. And the mud has left. It is to be hoped to stay.

There's no place like home—along about Christmas time.

Daily Livestock Letter.

Special to Daily Panhandle.

Kansas City Stockyards, Dec. 10.—A good supply of Colorado and other western cattle have been coming for the last two weeks, and the supply has been running more to Stockers and feeders than any time before this season. Practically no beef steers from the range were included last week, but there were some very good cows and the quality of the stockers and feeders from the West was best of the season and prices the highest. The market has been firm since the middle of last week, with a tendency toward higher prices and today there is a positive advance of 10c to 15c on stockers and feeders. Beef grades, both cows and steers are 10c higher. Late last week the season's record prices for feeders was paid at $4.35 and $4.50 for 550 to 600-lb Colorado, while the bulk of the stockers and feeders sold at $3.75 to $4.25, a few low grade stockers at $3.50 to $3.60. Colorado cows sold at $2.50 to $2.60, mainly, with quite a number of sales at $3.50 to $3.75, canners $2.25 to $2.60. Panhandle cows sold mostly at $2.35 to $2.80, the best cows selling at $2.75 to $3.15, some New Mexico stockers at $3.35 to $4, range bulls $2.25 to $3. Several lots of Christmas cattle are here today, full loads selling at $6.65 and odd head up to $7. Sheep and lamb offerings are practically all fair to good fed stuff very few lots of good to choice stuff included. The market is stronger than a week ago, ran 5,000 today, market strong. Buyers take the desirable stuff readily at strong prices, without regard to outside influences. There is nothing above medium grade here today, but lambs are quotable at $6.75 to $7.50, anything desirable at $7.25 or better, yearlings at $6.75 to $6.90, wethers $5 to $6.75, ewes $4.50 to $5.35. Not much stock or feeding stuff is available, but as arrives finds ready sale.

GOODMAN CASE

Jury Discharged and Case Must Be Tried Again.

The jury in the case of J. R. Goodman against Choctaw, Oklahoma & Texas Railway company after being out two days, failed to reach a verdict yesterday and asked to be discharged. It is understood that the jury stood eleven to one in favor of a considerable judgment for the plaintiff. The crowded docket at the present term will not permit a new trial this year and the case will have to be continued to the May term of 1907.

Well Treated at Conway.

A small party of Iowa land workers and sight seekers visited the village of Conway yesterday and were royally entertained by James Dargell and William Hudson, both genial gentlemen, who are always glad to see their friends from the north. These gentlemen came to the Panhandle early and have nothing but the highest praise for the country and a genuine faith in its future.

HAD GOODS WITH HIM

Star Restaurant Cook Arrested in The Denver Eating House for the Theft of a Purse and Money.

Just how two marked coins came to be in his pocket instead of in another man's is the situation a restaurant cook, arrested last night, will have to explain to the court. The man arrested has been employed at the Star restaurant and was working there yesterday. A man who was an occasional customer of the restaurant came in and hung up his coat before going to a table. When he put on the coat again, he missed a pocket book that had contained a considerable sum of money.

All search for the missing property proved unavailable but the loser had his own idea as to how the pocket book got away. He communicated with Officers Cox and Sulder and in company with them, he started on the trail of the suspect. The man had left the restaurant and when found was at the Denver Eating house.

When he saw the officers, he made a pass at his pocket, but Officer Cox covered him with a revolver and told him to hold up his hands. Then Marshal Sulder went through the man's pockets with the result that among some other change the two marked coins were discovered.

The man was immediately taken into custody and was lodged in the jail. He stoutly protests his innocence but the fact of his having the coins is especially damaging evidence because the owner of the pocket book had exhibited the coins to Officer Cox yesterday afternoon and they were readily identified.

Children's

favorite tonic is White's Cream Vermifuge, the cure for worms and all children's diseases. It not only kills the worms but removes the mucus and slime in which they build their nests. Its action on the child is mild and leaves him in a healthy condition. Joe Daniel, Surgeon, Tonn, says that he gave one of his children White's Cream Vermifuge when the doctor thought it had colic, and from the first does the child passed 73 worms. L. O. DIAMOND CASE.

Jury Still Considering Over Its Decision.

The case against James Wilson charged with the theft of a diamond stud from Newton Travis two weeks ago, went to the jury this afternoon. The evidence against Wilson, while strong circumstantially, lacks direct testimony and the result is considerably in doubt.

According to the testimony brought out, Wilson talked with Newton Travis and pulled him to the edge of the sidewalk on the Bowery for a closer examination of the stone. Immediately after this Travis went to a barber shop and made some remark about the stone. "What diamond?" asked one of the barbers. Travis then felt for the stud and discovered his loss. He started back to find Wilson but Wilson had left the Bowery.

On the stand Wilson admitted having met Travis under the circumstances described and that he immediately afterward went through a saloon to the rear. He also admitted walking through mud and down the alley to McKnight's stable where he took a cab and went to a house across the Denver tracks. He was arrested at the house by the officers but the missing stone was never discovered.

CLAIMS MISQUOTED

Mrs. Storer Unable to Deny Interview, However.

Cincinnati, Dec. 11.—Regarding the remarkable statements credited to Mrs. Bellamy Storer in an interview published here today among them a claim that she and her husband had "created President Roosevelt," Mrs. Storer today said that while she had seen a newspaper woman last night, and had said some things accredited to her, the report as published, gave entirely a different complexion to everything talked of and that undue prominence had been given to certain incidents related during the interview. While unable to deny that such an interview was given she said that so inaccurately garbled was the report published that it did not correctly give her views or statements, and that she did not want it considered as coming from her. She refused to discuss the matter farther.

Pocket Business Guide.

Mr. Caldwell's Little Ready Reference ought to attract encouragement. It will be a regular monthly instruction of the city, keeping up with the changes which are so frequently made, and which make the ordinary "directory" so soon worthless to the town or the advertiser. Name of parties, the business, the location and phone will be given in systematic order, in plain type, easily found, entirely free of charge, and when a number of copies are subscribed for "commitments of" and name will be printed on the cover, and every copy strung for hanging when so wanted. All are invited to see the promoter and offer useful suggestions, so as to make the complete success of the undertaking and to dispel any falterism that might seem to be in lurking. 117-c

BOWMAN FOR BAILEY

Tells His Reasons in no Uncertain Tones Will Follow the Instructions of His Constituents.

J. R. Bowman, of this city, just elected as representative from this district, has unbounded faith in Senator Bailey, even though reports vilifying his character have been published on every hand. Mr. Bowman has just returned from a visit to Fort Worth and while there made the following statement which appeared in the Dallas News yesterday:

"Hon. J. R. Bowman of Amarillo, representative-elect to the Thirtieth legislature from the One Hundred and Sixth legislative district, gave out the following statement concerning the controversy over the election of a United States senator to succeed Senator Bailey."

"I cannot, from any published statement or from any statement I have heard made, substantiated by adequate proof, see aught that should cause me to disregard the instructions of my constituency, composed of twenty-eight counties, to cast my vote in the coming legislature for Senator Bailey."

"In the light of his reply, my heretofore strong admiration for him as a man and statesman has not in the least been shaken. It is my intention to vote for Senator Bailey for these reasons:

- "1. Because the people of my district specifically and almost unanimously instructed me to this end, and so sacred do I hold these instructions and my honest belief in Senator Bailey that I would resign my seat in the coming legislature before I would disregard them."
- "2. Because of his marked ability and unquestioned service to the people of this state and nation."
- "3. Because nothing as yet produced has diminished my strong faith in his probity and honesty of purpose."
- "4. Because I have never known him to be unfaithful even to the lowest of his friends."
- "5. Because I voted for him on July 28, believing him worthy and am still unchanged in that belief."

Committee Pertinent.

Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Dec. 11.—Before the Senate confirms the nomination of Cortelyou as secretary of the treasury and Garfield as secretary of the interior, the Senate committee on finance will insist upon learning from President Roosevelt when Shaw and Hitchcock intend to retire. The committee today declined to make a favorable report on these nominations until word was received from the President.

How Could She?

A Philadelphia clothing manufacturer received a contract for making uniforms for the telegraph operators along the line of one of the railroads. In order to measure the operators along the line he sent telegrams asking them to meet him on the station platforms.

He sent this telegram to the operator at one of the small stations:

"Meet me on the arrival of the 2:15 p. m. train. Wear nothing but shirt and trousers."

At the appointed time he reached this station and inquired for the operator. He saw a young woman looking embarrassed. She said, in answer to his inquiry:

"I am the telegraph operator and am here in response to your summons; but I decline to comply with your instructions as to apparel."—Texas Tid-Bits.
